

1. Principles

- 1.1. We receive applications to study from talented and diversely qualified individuals using a range of processes. In considering all applications, we do our best to see the potential to benefit from studying with us using robust academic admissions criteria. This Policy allows us to ensure we have listened to any concerns you have about the fairness of our decision on your application to study and to respond in a timely and proportionate way.
- 1.2. Our approach to admissions complaints is:
 - a. Clear and accessible. This means this Policy is widely available and written in such a way that you should not need additional support in understanding what a complaint is, how to make a complaint, your responsibilities, and our responsibilities.
 - b. Confidential, impartial, and fair. This means that we will treat concerns raised using this Policy as being serious and ensure that those considering complaints have no reasonable perception of bias or conflict of interest. We will not share your complaint with anyone unless there is a good reason to do so. You will not be treated less favourably as a result of making a complaint.
 - c. Timely, flexible, and proportionate. This means that we will work as quickly as we can to investigate complaints as far as is reasonably possible. We will follow the process outlined below unless we think there is a better way of handling your complaint. If this is the case, we will tell you that we intend to use a different process, and the reason why. We aim to complete both formal complaint stages within ninety days of a Formal Admissions Complaint being received.
 - d. Embedded and informative. This means we will use the complaints we receive to inform enhancements and improvements to our admissions process. We do this through our formal committees.
- 1.3. We understand that complaints can highlight strong emotional reactions. However, we reserve the right to close – without further action - complaints that are deemed to be malicious or vexatious (as defined below).
- 1.4. The applicability of this Policy under the University's Collaborative Provision arrangements is detailed in Schedule A.
- 1.5. If you have a disability, you may make a request for a reasonable adjustment to the process of handling a complaint set out below. This may include requesting additional time to make or respond to a complaint.
- 1.6. Unless because of an agreed reasonable adjustment due to a disability, or being part of a group complaint, we expect you to act on your own behalf in making a complaint. This means we will normally communicate only with you, and not a representative. However, we may allow you to nominate a representative to act on your behalf: in such circumstances we require your express permission to communicate with your named representative and, thereafter, will communicate only with them, not with you directly.
- 1.7. You are allowed to have one companion with you at any meeting you are invited to attend related to your complaint. Normally, your companion cannot be someone acting in a legal capacity. This is because this Policy is clear and easy to follow, and we expect you to speak for yourself in any meeting. At our discretion, your companion may help you if you have trouble engaging. However, you are responsible for the conduct of your companion at all times. If your companion's conduct is abusive or threatening, they will be excluded from the meeting and all future meetings. In such cases, we may continue with the meeting or reschedule. If the meeting is rescheduled, we will expect you to identify a new companion.

- 1.8. We normally expect you to provide evidence in support of your complaint. Evidence must be in English (or a certified translation) and we reserve the right to request originals of all evidence you provide and to undertake reasonable checks to authenticate evidence. You are responsible for obtaining certified translations.
- 1.9. We do not routinely record complaint meetings. However, meetings are attended by a notetaker, and you will receive a copy of these notes. If you have agreed reasonable adjustments in place and require a meeting to be recorded, you must tell us at least three working days before any meeting. Where we decide to make an audio recording of a meeting, you will be provided with a copy of the recording for your own personal use.
- 1.10. You are required to read and understand this Policy.

2. Definitions

- 2.1. We define an admissions complaint as: dissatisfaction about how we have handled your admissions query or application to study with us and/or the conduct of a member of University staff involved in the handling of your admissions query or application. This means that the remedies you may ask for include: an apology and/or a practical remedy.
- 2.2. You may only make a complaint using this Policy if you have made a formal request for information about studying with us or have submitted a complete application to study with us. Specifically:
 - a. 'made a formal request for information' means that you have contacted a designated representative of the University (in writing or by telephone) to ask for specific information about a course or course of study that we offer.
 - b. 'submitted a complete application to study with us' means that you have submitted a completed application form and all supporting evidence.
 - c. 'On a course of study' means any module or modules, whether credit-bearing or not at any level of the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications. This includes inbound Study Abroad students that are primarily registered with one of our partner organisations.
 - d. 'With the University' means any course or module that is validated or conferred by the University, whether study is directly at Regent's University London or through one of our partner organisations.
 - e. 'Recently completed a course of study' means anyone that has been withdrawn from the University within the previous twenty working days (whether or not having been granted an award) or within twenty working days following graduation (whether or not attended).
- 2.3. 'No reasonable perception of bias' means that anyone making a decision about your complaint will have no previous involvement in the complaint or have been the subject of a formal complaint you have made. They will also not have any close personal connection to you or anyone involved in your complaint.

- 2.4. 'No conflict of interest' means that anyone making a decision about your complaint will have no personal interest in the outcome of any decision being made.
- 2.5. A complaint may be deemed vexatious or malicious as follows:
- a. A vexatious complaint is one where we believe you are doing so primarily to cause harassment; or makes repeated complaints related to a matter that we have formally concluded. This may include making unreasonable and/or unrealistic demands of an individual.
 - b. A malicious complaint is one where we believe you are attempting to insult, offend or make a false statement about a member of the University or its representatives; or where the remedy requested is disproportionate or not possible.

Vexatious and/or malicious complaints will be closed and any right of escalation or appeal removed.

3. Responsibilities

3.1. We will:

- a. Give you clear information about the Policy, the stage your complaint is at, who is handling your complaint, the timescales relevant to each stage and required actions, and the sources of support available to you.
- b. Handle your complaint at a local level. This means that the person/ department/ organisation responsible for delivery of a service will be expected to handle the complaint at the informal stage. This ensures effective service delivery that embraces continuous improvement.
- c. Investigate, as far as possible, all complaints. If we cannot investigate your complaint, we will tell you this and tell you why. For example, we cannot investigate complaints about the conduct of staff at other organisations (e.g. partner staff), but we may request a response on your behalf.
- d. Attempt to put in place a practical remedy if we find we have not met our usual high standards of delivery.

3.2. We expect you to:

- a. Be familiar with this Policy, including understanding and meeting the timescales and deadlines set out below. If, for good reason, you cannot meet the timescales set out below, we expect you to provide a comprehensive explanation and independent evidence covering the period of the delay.
- b. Be respectful and courteous, and to respond to requests for information promptly and accurately.
- c. Let us know as soon as possible if you require any reasonable adjustments to be made because of a disability to the way we process or handle your complaint under this Policy. If required, you should provide evidence to support any request for reasonable adjustments that you have made.
- d. Attend all meetings you are invited to in connection with your complaint.
- e. Tell us in advance of all meetings the name and their relationship to you of your companion.

4. Informal Stage (Admissions Concern)

- 4.1. At the informal stage, complaints are referred to as 'admissions concerns', and must be made informally and within fifteen working days of a single incident or the communication of our decision on your admission application.

- 4.2. Your admissions concern should be raised directly with the Admissions Office.
- 4.3. The person responding to an admissions concern should do so within fifteen working days. The admissions concern outcome should be copied to Registry to facilitate monitoring and to determine eligibility to move to the next stage.
